

Downtown Santa Ana

N

Context: Santa Ana is a city that has experienced heavy fragmentation due to the development of car-centric infrastructure. Historically, predominantly non-white communities were disproportionately chosen as sites for disruptive infrastructure projects, such as interstate highways. Centers for pedestrian traffic have been cut off from each other through this decades-long process. The City of Santa Ana is currently reinstalling miles of light-rail which was previously torn out to make room for widening roads.